

Alex Chauhan

Tech 1 Consultant

Seattle based visual artist, Alexander Chauhan, has been expanding his skills in 3D sculpture for the past few years. Raised in Seattle, Alexander grew up skateboarding, painting graffiti, and watching sci-fi movies which evolved into studying art in college.

As an Interdisciplinary Visual Arts graduate from the University of Washington in 2010, Alexander has blended his almost two-decades experience with aerosol stencils, printmaking, and newfound interest in woodworking to create three dimensional interactive paintings. The son of an Indian father & a white mother, Alexander's scope of work often explores the themes of biracial identity & family. Alexander is excited to be a part of BIPOC STAHC, and hopes to that with this project we can create a platform of stability and equity through homeownership for other artists of color.
